

UFO

Several people, including two policemen, saw the bright lights in the sky last Wednesday night but only Ravi and Alan saw where the lights touched down. From their hiding place, they saw that the lights were on a giant sphere and they heard a steady hum that sounded like a washing machine on fast spin, only 1,000 times louder. After a few minutes the lights dimmed and the spinning started to slow.

It slowly came to the ground with a thump, dust blew everywhere! Ravi said he thought it was a rocket. Alan gasped, "It's a UFO". The giant sphere was grey with no windows, it had different coloured lights like a disco.

Ravi was shaking with fear, he was gobsmacked. Alan was petrified, he wanted to explore it. Ravi said, "What if we get found out. Or they kidnap us."

"Don't worry they would not."

"Watch this," Alan threw a stone at it and it just bounced, floated and dropped. Ravi was getting more and more scared by the minute, whilst Alan was keeping calm and cool.

The UFO doors opened, smoke appeared at the door way. Alan slowly walked forward, Ravi stayed still. He was clueless and petrified. Alan was now at the edge of the slope, he bent down and felt the metal, it was hot and made of steel. Ravi whispered, "Alan, come back."

"I'm not risking it."

"Me neither."

He ran back like a warrior retreating from battle. Three weeks later, Ravi and Alan had almost forgotten about the UFO, but it was that night something even worse came to them, much, much worse...

That night, a slimy, big headed grey alien appeared. Alan went over to sleep at Ravi's house, as they were watching James Bond on the television, Alan went to the toilet.
