One day on a hot summer Monday morning Joe woke up feeling excited because he was going swimming with his mum and dad. His mum was called Ashley and his dad was called Nicky.

They all got ready to go, they jumped into the car but it would not start. Joes was sad so dad said, "Come on we will have to catch a bus." Joe was excited because he had not been on a bus before.

Joe is really kind to people but Joe can get a bit silly when he sees chocolate. Joe is the son of Nicky and Ashley. His friend's name is Sita. Joe loves to play on his Playstation and likes to play football with his friends.

When they got to the swimming pool they all got changed. Joe jumped in the pool. He said it was really cold. Mum said the pool was cold because the lifeguard turned off the heating so the pool was really cold.

Joe asked his dad if he could go on the biggest slide. Dad said, "Yes." Joe ran to the slide but Sita blew her whistle and told him to walk. In the meantime, Joe decided to explore around the pool. He began running around the pool and slipped in a puddle and banged his ankle and fell into the deep end of the pool. Joe realised he was drowning. Joe was shouting, "Help!" Sita jumped into the pool and saved Joe.

Sita had to pull Joe out of the deep end and his mum saw Joe, but she could not save him because she was in her clothes. It was up to Sita to save Joe.

When Joe got out of the pool his mum was there at the side looking worried so she said, "Are you ok?"

Joe said, "Yes."

"When you are ready, we can get ready to go to the park, and then we can go swimming again tomorrow," said mum.

At the park Joe went on the swings and then he asked his mum to push him higher. His mum pushed Joe too high and he went over the top but he was very lucky because there was glue on the seat. So his mum called for help and a policeman came and helped Joe's mum get Joe down from the swing.

After this, mum decided that it was safer to go home. Joe was a bit upset and a bit silly in the car, but mum explained why it was safer to go home. In the end Joe decided that it was a good idea as well.
