

The Accident at the Park

By Chloe Brooks

One day on holiday in Skegness four friends called Jo, Sita, Nicky and Ashley were playing on the park. Jo was enjoying herself with her best friends. Jo was a kind girl and she was always helping her mum out.

Jo liked to go to a dance club called Wild Cats. On Fridays she went to the park after school with her friend Nicky and every Monday she went shopping for her mum by herself. She felt very grown up that her mum trusted her to do this. What she really wanted to be was a ballerina when she grew up and dance on the stage.

When the children were at the playground Nicky was messing around on the climbing frame and her friends told her to stop but she wouldn't. Suddenly, Nicky fell off the climbing frame into a muddy puddle and looked like a chocolate fountain. Everyone laughed when they saw her in the mud but they realised her eyes were closed and she was not moving. They were worried because they could see that she was badly hurt.

Ashley was really upset and started to cry. Because Jo had done a First Aid course she decided to call 999 on her mobile. After ten minutes the ambulance arrived and took Nicky to the hospital. The doctors checked her over and bandaged her head and said, "You have to stay here until tomorrow. This is because you need to be looked after for a little while." Nicky was upset she had to stay at the hospital for a long time because to her one day was a long while.

Her friends came to collect her the next day and everyone was happy.
