

The Pig Village by Louis, Y4 Parkdale Primary School

It was evening when Sita and her friends Joe eight, Ashley seven and Nick six, went on a trip in Cape Town in South Africa. Sita called for her friends to have a walk to the town. As they were busy talking they realised they had gone the wrong way. They reached a little village and looked around to see if they could find someone to ask for directions home. There was no one in sight only pigs. "This must be a pig village," said the friends.

"Don't be silly," said Joe. "There is no such thing as pig village."

"Where are all the people?"

"They must have all disappeared, let's look for them?"

"No! I want to go home, this looks spooky to me," said Sita.

Ashley set off looking around the village to see if he could find any clues to what might have happened to the people of the village. From the back of the village Sita shouted for the rest of them to come and see what she had found. As they came running they could see a big circular crater. They were all amazed. "Does this mean a space ship has taken the people?"

As they thought, Joe, Sita and Ashley and Nicky tried to find their way back home. They couldn't help wondering where all the people of the village had gone and if they would ever come back.
