

The Incredible Power of Professor Joe! by Haziq, Y4 Parkdale Primary School

In the year 2020 Professor Joe and his assistant Nicky were working on their latest invention to give people super human powers. They had been working day and night and it was now midnight. The lab was full of old inventions. Professor Joe was a very smart intelligent man who had always been top of the class and he always got an A grade. Science was his life and he would never give up his dream to be the best scientist in the universe. When he graduated he got a job in a laboratory with his assistant Nicky. Nicky and his friends, Sita and Ashley were like brothers and sisters to Joe.

Suddenly there was a bang on the door. "Let me in," shouted a rough man's voice.

"Who is it?" replied Professor Joe. He looked through the spy hole in the door.

"Who are you?"

"Remember?" shouted the rough man.

"Oh yes," said Professor Joe.

"Just let me in," said the man.

Joe opened the door and it was General Thunderbolt Ross and his army. The general was pulling at his hair. He felt annoyed, angry and terrified. "We know you are the best scientist in America. We need you because you are so talented. You had better be ready," said the general.

"Ready for what?" Professor Joe replied.

"Ready for the machine," replied the general. "We are losing the war. We need soldiers who are strong, ok?"

"Ok," said Professor Joe.

Joe stepped into the machine and then he started to disappear again and again. Finally he stepped out of the machine. He looked like a body builder and was taller. "Am I allowed to rest?" said the professor.

"Of course," said the general.

Five minutes later Nicky said, "You are brave."

"Nicky, can you tell the general to come here?" said Professor Joe.

When the general came upstairs something terrible had happened - the professor had gone! The general looked through the window. Joe had turned into a large green person. He was destroying every object, big or small.

Joe explained to the general that he was now the "Destroyanater". The general called his men and they rushed upstairs where they fired bullets until they had no ammunition left. The "Destroyanater" was unhurt, he was indestructible. As the "Destroyanater" threw a punch he turned back into Professor Joe. He realised that as the sun had come up his invention had lost its power and he had returned to normal, but he wondered what would happen the next time he or one of his friends stepped into the machine...
